

Innovestia

Innovestia Community

Disclaimer

Description of the Core and Operation of the Website

This website is a free service for direct interaction with Innovestia Community smart contracts. The website is purely informational in nature. It does not accumulate or store any funds. The website is not an operational center of Innovestia and does not operate the Innovestia Community smart contracts. The website provides comprehensive information about the Innovestia Community, how the smart contracts function, their algorithms, and the rules of interaction between participants. This platform is designed to facilitate understanding and interaction with smart contracts and to assist users in working with them. Anyone can interact directly with Innovestia Community smart contracts without using this website. The smart contract algorithm is decentralized and not operated by any individual. All financial operations using the smart contract are conducted on a peer-to-peer basis. There are no individuals collecting funds.

Website Availability

While the Innovestia Community will endeavor to maintain this website's availability at all times to provide guidance and assistance in interacting with smart contracts, we cannot be held liable if the website becomes unavailable for any period of time for any reason. Access to the website may be suspended at any time without prior written notice to users.

Updates

The Innovestia Community reserves the right to review and revise the conditions and terms on the website by updating them. Any such updates will apply to all users.

Liability

The Innovestia Community will not be liable for any losses arising in connection with the website content, information on the website, or consequences of actions or decisions taken as a result of accessing or using the website.

Although the Innovestia Community takes reasonable measures to ensure the accuracy and relevance of the content, it is not responsible for actions taken by individuals or organizations based directly or indirectly on information presented on or obtained from the website. The website and its contents are provided "as is" without any guarantees, expressed or implied, and the Innovestia Community makes no assurances or guarantees regarding the website and its contents, including but not limited to: (i) the timeliness, relevance, completeness, accuracy, availability, or suitability for any particular purpose; (ii) uninterrupted, safe operation without omissions; (iii) that the Innovestia Community will correct any errors or that the website will be free of viruses and other malware; and (iv) that the website and its content do not infringe upon third-party rights.

The Innovestia Community disclaims any implied assurances or guarantees and is not liable for the website, its content, or use. The information and materials on this website represent the views and expertise of the Innovestia Community and do not constitute financial or legal advice. Access to the website and use of its content are solely at the user's discretion.

Agreement to Terms and Conditions

By using this website, you accept the terms and conditions outlined in this Disclaimer.